30 Years of Experience

1 Year with DLR Group

About Tim

Tim Cowell leads DLR Group's Workplace Studio in California. His many years of diverse experience in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Houston cover both the client and the design perspective. This array of experience means Tim brings a blend of skillful project management, design sensitivity, and a unique understanding of "enterprise level" corporate client's needs.

Tim's years of experience at the Walt Disney Company and the University of Southern California contribute to his expertise in portfolio management and optimization, as well as design standards development. He is especially sensitive to pressures on commercial real estate portfolio managers in delivering sustainable value in real estate investment. Focusing on the individual employee's experience, Tim believes design can position these CRE professionals to stay ahead in rapidly evolving industries.

What Excites Tim Most about Google: Clients who are known innovators, make the best collaborative Clients. Google defines innovation, they change their logo every day!

"My dream client trusts me and my team to solve for their future, challenging both environmental and psychological impacts with Workplace evolution."
